Officer Who Assisted in Finding Lost Man Honored

BARRIGADA, GUAM – The Customs and Quarantine Agency honors one of its officers who, on his regular day off, volunteered and help find the lost crabber in Asiga, Malojloj.

CQII Jason Paulino on Friday, December 14, 2018 and alongside a few other volunteers, went out in search of Mr. Guerrero and ultimately found him in a tree.

CQA's Acting Director George L. Charfauros, Jr. states, "I wasn't aware one of our officers was part of the group who found Mr. Guerrero until the guard at the PacAir Facility, where our headquarters is located, was telling me to thank the customs officer who helped find her brother-in-law. I commend this officer for going above and beyond his duty station to serve and protect and am glad the Guerrero Family's Christmas will be that much brighter."

CQII Paulino will receive a Certificate of Appreciation from the Agency for his participation in a successful search and rescue mission.
